

WILL ORGANIZE TEMPERANCE CLUB

Dr. McKanna's Class, Dismissed
Yesterday, to Hold Regular Meetings Hereafter.

ALL SEEM TO BE CURED

Doctor Will Treat Class of 100
Free on His Next Visit to Richmond.

After having been under the care of Dr. J. J. McKanna for three days at the Associated Charities Building, the class of thirty-eight men who, according to their own statements, had for the better part of their lives been addicted to the liquor habit in its worst form, was yesterday afternoon dismissed. To all appearances they were entirely cured. As each man walked up for his last drink of the remedy, he was asked to have a drink from a bottle of whiskey sitting on a nearby table, but in every case the "no, thank you," was emphatic and convincing.

Improved in Appearance.
No one would have recognized these men as they walked erect and steady into the room where the medicine was being administered, as the same set which had come to take the treatment Thursday. From the dull, listless beings who came to Dr. McKanna as a last resort but with little confidence, they were changed into men for whom the world holds a future, and to whom the desire to do right had come again. From all walks of life and under varying conditions, they had come, and the change was wonderful. Their nerves were steady, their eyes clear, and there was a look of confidence on each face. Dr. McKanna administered the final dose and pointed out to the newspaper men present the worst cases. To one man who had come to take the treatment, Dr. McKanna handed a glass of the medicine and said: "Hold out your arm." The man's arm went out, and there was not a noticeable tremor. This was not so nervous when he first came that the glass had to be held to his lips.

Thank Dr. McKanna.
When the last dose had been administered and the men had retired into the large room reserved for them, there was a call for Dr. McKanna. Followed by those who were present, the doctor went into the room, where a member of the class, facing those who had taken the treatment with him, extended the thanks of the class to him. The spokesman, a man of education and intelligence, talked and talked, and several times his voice choked with emotion. Dr. McKanna responded briefly, after which each member shook his hand.

Will Organize Club.
Following Mr. Elliott, Dr. James Buchanan gave the men a few words of friendly advice. Dr. Buchanan concluded by offering a room in the rear of the building to the men to be used as a club. He asked each man to return next Saturday night and assist in fixing the room up for the purpose. Dr. McKanna then stated if they would do this, when he returned to Richmond on his next visit he would treat free any 100 men who through their efforts might be brought together. The men responded to this with a cheer. "That's something to live for right away," said one. "I know many more that could be saved by this cure, and I am going in to work for them at once." The men then held an informal meeting, appointed a committee and elected a chairman to look out for the work. They all declare they will return next Saturday night.

After this, with many thanks to Dr. and Mrs. Buchanan and others connected with the Associated Charities, the class departed. "To-morrow will be the first happy Sunday my family has spent for many a year," said an aged, gray-haired man, as he shook hands with Dr. Buchanan.

NEED MONEY FOR WOMAN'S COLLEGE

Campaign for Balance of Half-
Million-Dollar Fund Opens
This Week.

Co-operating with the Virginia Baptist Education Commission and with the General Education Board of New York, Richmond College is launching a campaign for the purpose of raising the last $100,000 of the $500,000 needed for the establishment of the proposed new woman's college, which will be operated here in conjunction with Richmond College. According to the plan, the college will be a co-educational institution, it will be necessary to raise this amount by January 1, 1909, or the scheme will fall through. Towards the full amount the General Board of Education of New York has agreed to give $150,000. Throughout Virginia the sum of $250,000 has been pledged. Plans are now under way to have subscribed among the churches and friends of education outside of Richmond $150,000, which will make $500,000.

So the fate of the new institution rests on the raising of the other $100,000.

The campaign for the rest of the money will begin actively the middle of this week, and will continue not longer than thirty days. With the generous work of the numerous citizens who are interested, coupled with help promised by the Chamber of Commerce, it is probable that the amount will be raised in less time than that allotted. If the plans are successful they will be the means of putting Richmond in the front rank of all cities of the South in the education of women.

As to the plans of the promoters of the institution, Dr. F. W. Boatwright, president of Richmond College, and one of the foremost workers in the movement, said yesterday: "The board proposes to establish an endowed college of high grade that shall offer a four years' course based on high school training. There are only three or four such institutions south of the Potomac, and Richmond must be a member of this college. The college will be related to Richmond College very much as the Woman's College of Cleveland is related to Adelbert College, or as Barnard is related to Columbia College, New York. The type of modern city college as found in New York, Providence, Cambridge, Cleveland and New Orleans calls for two affiliated colleges, one for men and one for women, each having its own campus, its own classes and its own institutional life. There is, however, much in common between the two colleges. There is a board of control and a central administration. One great library supplies both institutions with books. Facilities for communications, lectures and music engage more able professors than either alone.

"Above all, there is unity of spirit and the entire staff of numbers in faculty and student body. What efficiency and economy find necessary in New Orleans and New York and in leading cities of New England and the Middle West will prove profitable in Richmond.

Absorb Present Woman's College.
The trustees, president and the alumnae of the present Woman's College of Richmond are hearty supporters of the new plans. The trustees, by recorded vote, agreed months ago that if the new college should be located in or near the city of Richmond they would, as soon as the new institution opened its doors, turn over their property and franchises to the Education Commission. Since the Education Commission and the type of college are jointly laboring to build the new college, there can be nothing but the most cordial co-operation. In an important sense the new college will be built on the good foundations laid by Dr. Nelson and his staff of excellent teachers. The alumnae of the present Woman's College feel this for in their resolutions endorsing the enterprise they promise to work for the new college as for their own alma mater.

How Much Money Is Needed?
The plan is for half a million dollars. Towards this amount the General Education Board of New York has subscribed $150,000 provided the balance be pledged in Virginia by January 1, 1909. There has already been pledged in certain Baptist churches and by friends of education throughout Virginia the sum of $250,000. Plans are now in operation to secure $250,000 from churches and friends outside of Richmond. This will make $500,000. The plan is to have the college open in 1909. On this everything turns for if we fail here we fail everywhere. Subscriptions are in the five-year plan. One who subscribes $100 pays only $20 a year. Twenty thousand dollars a year for five years will put Richmond in the front rank in the education of women.

Workers for the Fund.
"Richmond College and the Virginia Baptist Education Commission have been conducting the campaign in Virginia for more than a year. The executive committee in immediate charge consists of Dr. R. H. Pitt, president of the commission, and myself. The agent of the campaign committee is Dr. B. C. Henning, secretary of the commission. The treasurer of the fund is Dr. C. H. Ryland, of Richmond College. The special campaign committee for Richmond has elected Lieutenant-Governor J. Taylor Elliott chairman, and he will be in charge of the undertaking to raise $100,000 to complete the $500,000 fund. Mr. Elliott will have the cordial co-operation of the college, of whose trustees he is president; of the commission, and of the business organizations of Richmond.

Work Begins This Week.
"The campaign will begin about the middle of this week, and will last not longer than thirty days. Some members of the citizens' committee are so sanguine that they declare the whole amount can be raised in two weeks. Everybody believes that it can be done within a month.

"Richmond College already brings to the city the income on $2,500,000, and the 'Greater Richmond College' now proposed, will bring here annually the income on from $5,000,000 to $6,000,000. Such an opportunity is too attractive not to be seized promptly. For business, as well as for cultural reasons, Richmond will respond quickly and liberally to the call of her leading citizens.

"It now remains for the business men of Richmond to show their practical interest in this great educational undertaking, which promises such notable and permanent benefit to our city. The Chamber of Commerce pledges to Richmond College and the campaign committee its cordial co-operation and its endorsement of the plan to raise $100,000 in Richmond between this date and January 1, 1909. The association also authorizes the appointment of a committee of seven to co-operate with the campaign committee and with other similar committees of Richmond citizens in raising the amount to secure this new college for our city."

COMPLAIN OF WORK ON MAIN

Business Men's Club Writes to Mayor,
Who Calls on City Engineer.

Mayor Richardson yesterday morning received a written complaint from the Business Men's Club in regard to what the club claims to be the tardiness and slow delay exhibited in the work of repaving the main street in Richmond. Complaints have been made before, but they were answered with apparent satisfaction.

Mayor Richardson took the matter in hand, and wrote to City Engineer Bolling, asking the latter for a conference.

The Rev. Charles E. Stuart, pastor of the Venable Street Baptist Church, will preach a special sermon to the members of the Improved Order of Red Men to-night. The sermon is for the benefit of every member of the order in the city, and a large attendance is especially desired.

CINCINNATI SONS MEET TO-MORROW

JUNIOR ORDER RAISES FLAG

Stars and Stripes Hoisted Over
Fairmount High School With Patriotic Demonstrations.

Under the auspices of Fairmount Council, No. 70, Junior Order United American Mechanics, a large crowd witnessed the raising of the United States flag over Fairmount High School yesterday afternoon. The exercises commenced at 4:30 o'clock with Mr. W. M. White as master of ceremonies. Speeches were made by Mayor D. C. Richardson, Mr. H. W. Woody, and others. Members of the City School Board occupied seats on the platform. At the close of the patriotic rally was fired by the Howitzers' Battery.

Judge Richardson made an interesting speech concerning the flag, what it stands for, and the principles that it typifies. He called the attention of the children to the number of advantages that they enjoy over those of their forefathers, and admonished them to utilize their chances to the end that they become the leading men and women of the community.

In presenting the flag, Mr. Woody pointed to the children as those who would uphold the rights of American citizenship and in future shape the policies of the country. He asked them to ground themselves in the history and moralities of the nation, and patriotic ballot," he declared, "can always be safely trusted."

(The Rev. John H. Earle presented the school with a Bible in the name of the order.)

The musical program carried out by the children was well chosen and excellently rendered.

ARGUING RATE CASE

Attorney-General Anderson Will Return to Washington To-Day.

Attorney-General William A. Anderson spent yesterday in the city, having returned here from Washington on an early train. He opened the argument for the State in the case of the Virginia Railway and Electric Company, which was followed by Senator Daniel, who is associate counsel for the State.

The argument will be concluded on Tuesday.

Hon. Alfred P. Thom will speak to-morrow for the railroad. He will be followed by Mr. Joseph L. Doran, of Philadelphia, general counsel for the Norfolk and Western Railway. The case on behalf of the State, and the court will take up the case on Friday.

Senator Daniel made most admirable argument for the State, and that showed great familiarity with the principles involved. The court will hand down a decision within the next few months, and which will settle the long-drawn-out controversy once for all.

PLAN TO RECEIVE CHAPMAN

Sixty Churches United for Great Evangelistic Meetings.

Preliminary arrangements are rapidly being perfected for the Chapman-Alexander evangelistic service, to be held in Richmond in January. Sixty churches have agreed their intention of uniting in the service.

The city has been divided into five districts with a subcommittee in each, working under the direction of the central organization. Each church in the movement will be represented by a member on each of the following committees: Personal work, juvenile, music, publicity and finance. The committees are being rapidly completed in the various districts, and everything points to a great religious awakening.

Dr. Chapman in all of his campaigns lays special stress upon the necessity of preparation by the local churches for the coming of the evangelist. To this end prayer-meetings and cottage prayer-meetings will be arranged for during the first part of December and continue until the arrival of the evangelist.

COMPANY SUES CITY

Richmond Leather Manufacturing Company Asks Damages in Sum of $6,000.

Suit was entered in the Law and Equity Court yesterday morning by the Richmond Leather Manufacturing Company against the city of Richmond in an action of trespass for $6,000.

The complaint alleges damage to the part of the city caused by the overflow of water at the foot of Twenty-third Street, where in January, 1907, it is said the city gave the Southern Railway the right to change its tracks from the north to the southern side of the street. The complaint alleges that the work was done negligently, causing a choking of the conduits, and consequent damage to thousands of dollars' worth of hides stored in the basement of the company's building.

JUVENILE PROTECTIVE SOCIETY HOLDS IMPORTANT MEETING

President Willard Makes His Report, Showing Progress.
Dr. Buchanan Has Visited Many Cities, Studying Various Methods in Operation.

Showing much progress since the general meeting held last June, when the officers were elected, and the articles of incorporation approved, a meeting of the board of trustees of the Juvenile Protective Society was held at the Jefferson Hotel last night. Reports showed that much had been accomplished during the summer months in the face of many difficulties.

President Joseph E. Willard stated that during the vacation season Dr. James Buchanan of the Associated Charities, who had been secured as probation officer for the society, had been very successful in his work. He stated that the juvenile offenders had been made in the court during this month, and that all cases of juvenile offenders had been taken to the probation officer, that the hearty co-operation of the officers, as far as law permits, had been freely given.

He brought out, too, that the object of the society was not to minimize the influence of the courts, weaken the authority of the officers of the law, or encourage the criminal tendencies of the young offender. Under existing laws, said the president, extremes are likely to occur. Either the boy must be sent to the reformatory, or discharged. The former is not a desirable alternative, and the latter will make a confirmed criminal of him. Both of these evils the society seeks to avoid. Dr. Buchanan, in rendering his report, said that he had visited during the summer New York, Washington, Columbus, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Louisville, and other cities. He spoke at length on the various aspects of the juvenile problem, and gave an interesting and instructive outline of the different methods employed.

Police Commissioner Chris Manning, Jr., assured his co-workers that the Board of Police Commissioners would have the society in mind for the work of the society.

Resolutions were adopted authorizing the president to appoint an executive committee of five members and all other committees necessary for the development of the work. He was also authorized to make arrangements at an early date for a public meeting to be addressed by a prominent authority on this work.

The members of the board are Mrs. Morris H. Acher, Mrs. Henry E. Russell, Mr. Andrew H. Christian, Mrs. V. P. M. Cohen, Mrs. Louise M. Lind, Mrs. E. C. Minor, Messrs. Charles J. Bosher, John P. Branch, Joseph Bryan, Charles B. Cooke, J. J. Crutcher, O. H. Funtun, W. W. Gillette, Charles H. Hutzler, Chris. Manning, Jr., Eugene C. Massie, John Rutherford, the Rev. R. W. Forsyth, the Rev. Charles F. Hannigan, the Rev. W. J. Mayhew and Dr. S. C. Mitchell.

The following members are officers: President, Joseph E. Willard; First Vice-President, Milton E. Marcus; Second Vice-President, A. J. Montague; Third Vice-President, the Rev. J. B. O'Reilly; Secretary, James Buchanan, and Treasurer, W. L. Walters.

Virginia Society to Hold Its Annual Session at Westmoreland Club.

W. R. MEREDITH PRESIDENT

Great Interest Shown in Organization Within Past Two Years.

The ancient and historic Society of the Cincinnati in the State of Virginia will convene in annual session at the Westmoreland Club to-morrow at 10 o'clock A. M.

The officers of the Virginia Cincinnati are: Wyndham R. Meredith, president; William Gordon McCabe, vice-president; Heth Lorton, secretary; William Landon Washington, treasurer; Henry Landon Cawell, assistant treasurer.

As about 70 per cent of the Virginia Society live away from Virginia, and the members attending the annual meeting on Monday are compelled to leave to their homes on afternoon trains, it has been decided to omit the usual public ceremonies in the Senate chamber and the formal banquet in the evening. The members of the society, however, will be entertained at luncheon on Monday at the Westmoreland Club.

Revived in 1890.

The Virginia Society of the Cincinnati was one of the largest of the original State Societies of the Cincinnati, but like many of the other original State Societies, was permitted to become dormant for various reasons. The Virginia Society was revived July 26, 1890, by descendants of original members and an organization perfected at a meeting in Richmond, at the Westmoreland Club. All the original members of the Society of the Cincinnati are now fully revived and in regular working order.

For a long time after its revival the Virginia Society remained the smallest of the State Societies, but during the past few years, by hard patient work, increased membership, and the roster for 1907-1908 shows that the Virginia Society of the Cincinnati is the largest of all the State Societies of the order.

Its present membership is over 100, and about thirty new applicants will come up for election at the meetings on Monday.

How Society Is Formed.

The Society of the Cincinnati is confined strictly, under the organic law of the order, to the thirteen original State Societies, into which the general society is divided for the sake of frequent communications. These State Societies are the societies in the thirteen original States of the American Union, viz., New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia. Hereditary membership is rigidly limited by the institution of the order to eligible descendants of qualified officers of the American army or navy of the Revolutionary War. "Men in the respective States" of the American Union, "eminent for their abilities and patriotism," are admitted as honorary members in the proportion of one to four of the hereditary members.

Within the last two years there has been a large degree of interest manifested in the Society of the Cincinnati, which was founded by His Excellency General George Washington, commander-in-chief, and other officers of the American Army of the Revolutionary War on the banks of the Hudson river in May, 1783.

Police Court Cases.

The case of Charles Lamont, colored, charged with setting fire to the house of a man named James D. Dyer, Street, Thursday night, was continued in Police Court yesterday until October 22.

The case of H. P. Carter, charged with breaking six mirrors and a clock in the barber shop of W. W. Scott, 143 North Main Street, was continued until October 22.

Will Not Interfere.

Governor Swanson has declined to interfere in the case of a man named James D. Dyer, who was convicted of attempted criminal assault in Chesterfield county and sentenced to electrocution on Monday night. The Governor said he would not interfere, but it did not contain the endorsement of the court officials, or the jury who brought in the verdict.

Council Committee Meetings.

Council committee meetings for this week are scheduled as follows: Poor and Subordinate, Tuesday, 8 o'clock; Finance Committee, Tuesday night; Subcommittee on Water, Wednesday night; and Subcommittee on the new bridge, Thursday night.

Charcoal Purifies Any Breath

And in Its Purest Form Has Long Been Known as the Greatest Gas Absorber.

Pure willow charcoal will oxidize almost any odor and render it sweet and pure. A handful in a foul cellar will absorb the odor of the gas, and absorb one hundred times its volume in gas.

The ancients knew the value of charcoal, and administered it in cases of illness, especially pertaining to the stomach. In England to-day charcoal is used for the purpose of purifying the air in the hospitals, while some physicians in Europe claim to cure many skin diseases by covering the afflicted skin with charcoal powder.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges go into the mouth and transfer foul odors at once into oxygen, absorb noxious gases and acids, and when swallowed mix with the digestive juices and stop making fermentations and other bad results. By their gentle qualities they control beneficially toward action and stop diarrhoea and constipation.

But charcoal cannot exist when charcoal is used. There are no fumes or odors about this statement. Don't take our word for it, but look into the matter yourself. Ask your druggist or physician, or better still, look up charcoal in your encyclopedia. The beauty of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges is that the highest pharmaceutical expert knowledge obtainable has been used to prepare a lozenge that will give to man the best form of charcoal for use.

Pure willow and honey is the result. Two or three after meals and at bedtime sweeten the breath, stop decay of teeth and the digestive apparatus, and promote perfect bowel action. They enrich the supply of oxygen in the system, and thereby revitalize the blood and nerves.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are sold everywhere in vast quantities, but they must have merit. Every druggist carries them, and every grocer, or send us your name and address, and we will send you a trial package by mail, free of charge. Write to Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges, 200 South Third, Marshall, Mich.
